ABOUT ICLEE CONFERENCE

ICLEE(International Consortium of Landscape and Ecological Engineering) was established in 2004 to publish “Landscape and Ecological Engineering” through collaboration among societies primarily in East Asia in the fields of environmental conservation, management and restoration, with the goal of contributing to the development of related disciplines and human communities living in harmony with the natural environment.

Since 2005, ICLEE has published the international journal “Landscape and Ecological Engineering”. with the aim of protecting and improving the environment in the face of biodiversity loss, desertification, global warming, and other environmental conditions. The journal presents original papers, reports, reviews and technical notes on all aspects of conservation, restoration, and management of ecosystems. Its scope is not limited to purely scientific approaches, but welcomes technological and design approaches that provide useful and practical solutions to today's environmental problems. The coverage is relevant to students and researchers at universities and institutes, while its emphasis on the practical application of research will interest all decision makers dealing with landscape planning and management problems. Thanks to the efforts of ICLEE, the journal has been marked in the SCI-E(Science Citation Index Expanded) list since 2010.

ICLEE conferences have been held to promote the exchange of academic outcomes among ICLEE members and the communities. On November 29 ~ December 2 in 2023, the 13th ICLEE conference will be held in Jeju, Korea, with the theme of “Green Transformation to New Horizons”. We are looking forward to the participation and cooperation of researchers from the fields of landscape ecology, landscape planning, ecological engineering, and all the related studies.
